NEW FIRE HEADQUARTERS ARE NOW IN OPERATION

"Central" of Alarm System Now Among Most Modern of its Size and Promise is That it Will Reduce Insurance Rates.

The new fire alarm headquarters at the addition built some time ago at the end of the central fire station on East O'Reilly street are now in full operation, the change in the system having been made several days ago by which the entire fire alarm system is now being run by the new batteries and new equipment installed there. Formerly the fire alarm system was operated from the fire alarm headquarters on the third floor of the city hall, where it has been located since the system was originally installed about twenty-five years ago.

All batteries used in operating the system are in the new headquarters, the battery room occupying the entire lower part of the addition. The batteries are charged daily from the city of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company whose alternating current is transformed into the direct current required for the batteries by means of a motor generator.

A winding iron staircase leads from the battery room to the room in which all the apparatus used in headquarters is placed and in the same room where Superintendent Richard A. Elmendorf of the fire alarm system has his office, which enables him at all times to keep close watch on the system and to detect quickly and promptly locate any trouble on the wires.

A new piece of apparatus installed is the repeater by which an alarm of fire is repeated by one circuit to another. The fire alarm system is divided into four circuits, and one of the important functions of the repeater is to prevent interference with the alarm when alarms are pulled from different boxes about the same time. All Broadway boxes and all boxes in the business sections of the city are equipped with non-interfering successive alarm boxes, which is the latest production in the Gamewell Fire Alarm works, by which a signal run from one box while a signal is being received from another box will follow the first signal as soon as the first signal has been completed. More of this improved type of fire alarm boxes will be installed later.

At present there are four circuits, which was the same number on the old board in the city hall, but eventually there will be seven box circuits instead of four, together with a "jigger" circuit which will connect the central fire station, the city hall fire alarm bell and the alarm equipment in fire alarm headquarters.

A piece of apparatus, which is among the wonderful productions of automatic fire alarm is the time and date stamp, which automatically indicates on rolls of paper every time a signal is sent in or a bell rung, and is so accurately adjusted that it automatically indicates the short and long months as well as leap years without requiring the change of any part of the machine.

A protector board which is included in the new apparatus automatically opens the circuit in case a lightning bolt follows the wire and absolutely prevents the burning out of any of the equipment. An unusually heavy current, such as might be carried by the fire alarm wires in case a live lightning system wire should drop across it, also is prevented from doing any damage to the equipment by means of the protector board.

The new switchboard is one of the latest and the most complete in every detail. The work of connecting it up required considerable time and the completion of this work several days ago by Superintendent Elmendorf and his assistants, Marshall G. Miller, and the Chief of the Central fire station, enabled the change of the system from the city hall to the new fire alarm headquarters to be made promptly.

There are more than thirty miles of overhead wires used in the fire alarm system of the city. Wires on Broadway, from the Strand to Albany street, and along Albany street to the head of Pearl street, are carried in the underground conduits. Cable has been purchased which will enable the wires in the business sections to be carried underground instead of overhead.

The new addition to the Central fire station which now houses the fire alarm system is entirely fireproof. There is no wood in any of the equipment and even the standards which hold the new apparatus is of metal. Altogether the new equipment and new housing of the fire alarm headquarters add greatly to the value of the system and keep Kingston's system abreast of the best of the country, just as the fire department takes first rank among the paid fire departments in the state of this size of the entire United States.

The state board of fire underwriters has promised that these changes would result in a reduction in insurance rates.

Witwyck Laundry, No. 1 Delta Place, is certified to the Ulster county clerk that he is conducting a business in this city under the name and style of Witwyck Laundry.

MERCHANTS READY FOR TOMORROW DOLLAR DAY SALE

Extensively Advertised Sale Will Supply Wants of Every Man and Woman—All Leading Stores Participate.

The big Dollar Day Sale in which two score of Kingston's leading merchants will participate tomorrow will be of unusual interest not only to buyers from all sections of the region whose trade comes naturally to Kingston, where the sale already has been extensively advertised, but also to every man and woman in this city, to whom the announcement of some of the big bargains is announced in the advertising columns of The Freeman.

Kingston's many shopping advantages are well known, and the merchants who hold the special Dollar Day sale tomorrow can be depended on to display lines of goods that will be appreciated by retail buyers. Practically every line of goods, retailed in Kingston is included in the list of bargains advertised in today's Freeman.

Summer visitors to Kingston and the nearby region have found Kingston city merchants carrying a line of goods that measure fully up to the highest standards, and the lack of heavy overhead expenses which on the contrary must be paid by stores in the big cities is reflected in the lower prices at which goods sell for in Kingston.

The Dollar Day Sales to be held throughout the city tomorrow will be on a larger scale and more merchants will take part than any sale that has been held in this city for a long time. Every department of the home can be supplied with bargains that will be placed on sale tomorrow, and the individual wardrobe of every member of the household can be augmented at a considerable reduction of cost which is made possible by this combined sale.

All the merchants who will take part in tomorrow's big sale completed their preparations for it today, and stores throughout the city will present a most attractive appearance for everyone who takes advantage of tomorrow's Dollar Day Sale.

BANK RETURNED SHEELEY'S CHECK

Rosendale Man Arrested on Complaint of Morris Hynes, North Front Street Clothier—Other Cases in Police Court.

The latter part of July, Morris Hynes, the North Front street clothier, cashed a check for $15 for John J. Sheeley of Rosendale and later the check was returned to Mr. Hynes as Mr. Sheeley had no funds in the bank to meet it. This led to Mr. Hynes swearing out a warrant for the arrest of Sheeley on a charge of petit larceny. Monday afternoon Officers Fout and Welch went to Rosendale and placed Sheeley under arrest.

This morning in police court the hearing was adjourned to Friday morning and bail fixed at $200. Judge Schirck asked Sheeley if it was true that he had been lent a legacy of $14,000 and had spent it all within the past few months. Sheeley replied that the legacy had amounted to but $600.

Leroy Smith, a local taxi driver, was fined $5 for speeding.

Charles White, a negro, arrested on a charge of public intoxication, was also fined $5, but, unable to pay the fine, was remanded to the county jail for five days.

Isadore Alcon, a local taxi driver, arrested recently by John C. Smith, in charge of Kingston Point Park, on a charge of disorderly conduct, paid a fine of $3.

Leroy D. Garrett of Philadelphia, Pa., arrested for speeding, forfeited $10 cash bail by failure to appear.

Benedict M. Beck of Woodstock arrested for speeding furnished bail for his appearance later.

The charge of soliciting passengers while standing more than five feet from his car lodged against Martin Haggerty, a taxi driver, was dismissed. He was arrested by Special Officer Constable of the O. & W.

Samuel Lindenberg of Kerhonkson, arrested for driving to the left of a traffic standard, forfeited $5 cash bail by failure to appear.

HOPE FOR PEACE; READY FOR FIGHT

Both Sides in the Railroad Strike Situation—Unless There is a Change There Will Be No Settlement Tomorrow.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 22.—"Hopeful for peace but preparing for trouble." This summed up the attitude of the administration today in the railroad strike as President Harding met with his cabinet for another round table discussion of the industrial situation and the policies that the government may be compelled to put into effect if tomorrow's joint conference between railway executives and strike leaders fails to establish the desired peace in the transportation industry.

The warlike utterances of the eastern executives, notably L. P. Loeve and W. W. Atterbury, did not materially jar the optimism that exists in government circles that a basis of adjustment will be established this week. It has been expected all along, a cabinet officer said, that the eastern executives would oppose settlement of the strike on any but their own terms, and consequently, the "no surrender" attitude of the "die hards" indicates little change in the situation.

"The problem is national not sectional," said an administration official, "and it is to be hoped it will be worked out along national lines. The conditions that prevail in the east perhaps do not prevail in the west or south. It should be remembered, for one thing, that the east cannot move the west's gigantic crops."

Secretaries Davis and Hoover took to today's cabinet meeting reports showing steady betterment in the coal situation. Already bituminous production is picking up as a result of the Cleveland agreement, and reports from government observers indicate an anthracite agreement is at hand.

New York, Aug. 22.—Unless there is a decided change of opinion in the meantime, there will be no settlement of the railroad shopmen's strike at tomorrow's conference of railroad executives of the country here. This was agreed to by the spokesmen for both executives and the men today.

Following a series of conferences among executives arriving in advance for the conference, John G. Walber, executive secretary of the bureau of information of eastern railroads, authorized the announcement that the company heads were apparently determined to "stand pat" on their refusal to restore strikers returning to work, their full seniority rights. Mr. Walber added that he "did not look for any settlement" as a result of tomorrow's meeting.

At the same time, spokesmen for the unions were proclaiming a similar "stand pat" attitude on the part of the strikers and were hinting at a growing attitude of a spread of the strike to other railroad labor organizations.

MINERS REFUSE ALL ARBITRATION

Conference Between Union and Operators on the Verge of a Breakdown Owing to Refusal of Miners to Arbitrate Anything.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Aug. 22.—Anthracite operators have dressed arbitration in various sorts of clothes and given it several different names, but the representatives of the 155,000 striking hard coal miners recognize it in any disguise and positively will have nothing to do with it.

Since last Thursday union leaders and mine owners have been with their feet under a conference table suggesting, discussing and debating the wage question. They had argued the same point many times since last March and reached a deadlock on the same issue in June. Arbitration of the wage question after April 1 next, was what the operators demanded and exactly what the miners opposed.

Following yesterday's conference there was every indication and many admissions that the conference is on the verge of a breakdown. There seems to be no way out and some of the forces that are here directing negotiations, were packing their guns and getting their grips ready to go home.

In face of this gloomy outlook, and despite the fact that each side admits the conference has reached the point where it has agreed to disagree, another session was called for this afternoon and some of the union leaders claimed a settlement could be brought about.

William J. Brennan, president of District Number one, was asked whether or not he expected to return to the coal fields with a new and satisfactory agreement.

"I expected that we will reach an agreement," he said. "I am confident we will but I admit of course that I may be mistaken. As union leaders, we have responsibilities that are as great as those of the operators. There are 155,000 men, many of them with families back home whose welfare we are guarding. There is no use trying to hide the fact that some of the men and some of the families are suffering and suffering much. We must think of them and the more we do the more determined we are to go home with a settlement."

Chris J. Golden, president of District Number 9, who is leading the fight against arbitration, made this statement:

"We will take our hats and go home before we will take arbitration in any form. But this conference must find a settlement of the anthracite problem and it will."

Thomas Kennedy, president of District No. 7, said today:

"We will have nothing to do with arbitration. We said so before we came here. We have stood solidly on that point since last Thursday and we do not expect to change now."

There is much plain talking at the parleys. From the union leaders comes the clear and frank admission that the miners will not go into arbitration of the wage question because they know it will bring about a reduction of wages. President Lewis, who is doing his talking in the conference room and not outside, declares that he got a settlement in the bituminous and managed to steer clear of arbitration. To take in the bituminous, he is pointing out, would upset his whole policy and perhaps bring antagonism to his leadership.

Many here have nursed a "hunch" that Wednesday would see the end of the conference one way or another. Now the belief is that the parleys may go on for the rest of the present week but there is always the possibility that any day will see the final session.

NEWEST REPORT IS OF OSER MCCORMICK ELOPEMENT

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Basle, Switzerland, Aug. 22.—An unconfirmed report was in circulation here today that Major Max Oser, 47-year-old Swiss riding master, and his 17-year-old fiancée, Miss Mathilde McCormick, of Chicago, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, had eloped either into Austria or Italy, and had been married. Friends of the couple professed to know nothing of their whereabouts. Miss McCormick, accompanied by a maid and companion, came to Switzerland about a fortnight ago ostensibly to meet her suitor and visit friends.

FORD RUNS INTO FRANKLIN CAR

There was considerable excitement uptown this morning about 9:30 o'clock when the Ford delivery car of the Beekmantown Arms of Kainebach and a new Franklin touring car owned by Brookly parties came together at the junction of Fair and John streets. The Ford was not damaged but the Franklin has a bent mud-guard and a small dent in the side. The Franklin was coming down Fair street toward Main street and the Ford came out of John street going toward Wall street. The driver of the Ford said after the accident that his brake did not work and that he would pay for the damage to the Franklin.

The Franklin car bearing license number 710-582 is owned by Brooklyn parties and was occupied by a man and woman. After the accident the lady had her car towed to a garage and her car had been in an accident last week when a Ford car bound from Lake Mohonk to New Paltz tipped over, seriously injuring several people, among them being her mother and father who are now in the Kingston Hospital. The party are in boarding in this vicinity.

No. 13 Hauls Much Fruit.

Train 13 on the West Shore railroad was nearly one hour late Monday evening arriving at the Union Station. It was a heavy train, having besides four coaches several box cars loaded with grapes and peaches from the lower part of the country, being expressed to the Boston market. Grapes and peaches are beginning to grow in shipments from Marlborough, Highland and other Hudson Valley fruit sections.

WOMEN RESPONSIBLE FOR VULGAR DANCES SAY MASTERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 22.—In at least eighty percent of the cases women are responsible for vulgar dancing, according to Major Ned Gaylor, veteran dancing master, here today. Major Gaylor, who is 82 years old, is attending the convention of the National Association of Dancing Masters. He believed that modern dances are fast losing their popularity and that the stately, old-fashioned steps are coming back. Similar sentiment was expressed by Lewis H. Kretlow of Chicago. Prof. Kretlow is another veteran, having taught dancing for sixty years.

Southern R. R. Walkout Ends.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The walkout of Southern Railway train service employees at Spencer, N. C., which had freight traffic completely tied up and passenger trains moving under long delays, was ended at noon today when, on the withdrawal of state troops from the yards, the objects went back to work. It was announced at the offices of the Southern Railway here this afternoon.

An Auto Collision.

It was reported to the police Monday that the car of Aaron Parker of No. 481 Wilbur avenue was struck by a car driven by John C. Meller of No. 82 Elmendorf street, on Broadway in front of Van's Garage on Monday. At the time Parker was turning his car around in the middle of the street. The Parker car was somewhat damaged by the collision.

Borah Bill to Be Reported.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The senate labor committee this afternoon ordered a favorable report on the Borah bill to create a federal commission to investigate the coal industry. The commission would be composed of five members named by the president and would report to the president and congress within five months.

U. S. Steel Advances Wages.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 22.—The United States Steel Corporation announced this afternoon that the wage rates of day labor at all of its plants have been increased about twenty per cent to become effective September 1. Other rates will be equitably adjusted, it was stated.

HELP TO SAVE THE FRUIT CROP

Faced by a car shortage and the problem of marketing a huge fruit crop ripening earlier than usual, New York State farmers are appealing to city residents to help them save the valuable crop, worth several million dollars, from becoming a heavy loss.

Motorists are urged, in an appeal sent out yesterday by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, to buy fruit for canning and table use on their week end trips into the country. Farm Bureau managers in each county have promised to cooperate in furnishing information concerning where fruit can be secured.

Peaches and plums are now ripe and ready for marketing; pears will be ripe in a few days. If every motorist journeying into the country brings home his needs of these varieties, the burden placed on growers by the tremendous car shortage will be overcome the appeal points out, and the fruit crop will be saved.

"Buy fruit now at the farms and insure a plentiful and cheap supply of one of nature's most valuable foods for the coming winter," the appeal concludes.

SEIPEL SEEKS TO SAVE AUSTRIA

Chancellor Visits Capitals of Neighboring Countries in Effort to Make Economic Agreements.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 22.—Economic agreements between Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany and Italy are expected to result from the visits of Chancellor Seipel, of Austria, to those countries. It was learned here today following the arrival of the Austrian statesman in Berlin. There were reports that Dr. Seipel would discuss the possible merger of Austria with Germany despite the opposition to such a move on the part of the Allies. "The treaty of St. Germain with its makeshift provisions has brought Austria to the edge of an abyss," declared Chancellor Seipel. "Austria now demands a positive political solution which will furnish the basis of economic recovery."

"France forbids a junction of Austria and Germany. England has refused to allow any other big power to gain dominion of the Danube. Italy opposes a federation of states on the Danube. The Czechs and Jugoslavs oppose Italian military expansion northward. Thus, Austria is a spitball within a vicious circle of irreconcilable, negative policies of the other powers."

"In Berlin, Prague and Rome it is clearly realized that a complete Austrian debacle would mean I am visiting these capitals with a view to fortifying Austria's economic relations with her immediate neighbors."

Old Pilgrim Documents.

In connection with the tercentenary of the arrival of the Pilgrims in America, a careful search has been carried on by scholars in Holland to discover records of the life of the Pilgrims while in that country. One of the most interesting of the discoveries is a statement by King James of England made through his ambassador, in which he denounces the Pilgrims as "ill-conditioned Brownists, not submissive to king hierarchy—banished men, who deserve no sympathy." Other documents show that the Pilgrims, while in Holland, learned many practical things which had great influence on the history of America, such as the accountability of magistrates to the people; the value of popular election whether of ministers or magistrates; the registration of deeds and mortgages; the personal care of the poor; the duty and the privilege of the freedom of the press.—"Boys' Life."

Books That Fired Fancy of Dickens.

Though the years (1821-23) which Dickens spent at the house on the brook, Chatham, now for sale, were a time of acute financial embarrassment for his parents, they were not without pleasant memories for the lad himself, for it was there, in a lumber room adjoining his bedroom, that he discovered a number of books, including "Robinson Crusoe," the "Arabian Nights," "Tales of the Genii" and the works of Smollett and Fielding, which first fired his fancy and turned the thoughts to authorship. There, too, he found a helpful friend in his schoolmaster, a Mr. Giles, son of the minister of a Baptist chapel next door to the house on the brook, who seems to have encouraged the boy in the exercise of his genius and who, when his famous pupil was publishing "Pickwick," sent him a silver snuffbox with an admiring inscription to the "Inimitable Boy."

Power of Music.

Music is an art distinct and self-sufficient. It represents the harmony of that interior truth which all art seeks to reveal, and whose beauty and grace appear in painting and sculpture. The interpreters of that harmony are sounds, which are related to music as colors to painting, and the fullest expression is given to them by instrumental combination. The human voice in respect of the art is valuable as an instrument, and in suppleness may exceed mechanical contrivances; wherefore one readily understands why a mighty chorus is introduced in the finale of the grandest symphony, that the whole effect may be duly crowned, and the appeal to the heart be assured by the union of human sounds. But with such an effect words have nothing to do.—G. W. Curtis.

Radium and the Air.

Men given to the study of radioactivity suggest that the electric conductivity of the atmosphere is largely, if not entirely, due to the radioactive emanations from the earth's crust. In support of this idea they mention the fact that in closed cellars and deep holes and wells the conductivity of the air is sometimes fifty times as great as that of the normal air. Another suggestive fact is that on days of low barometer, when the smaller pressure of the atmosphere favors the escape of emanations from fissures in the ground, the conductivity of the air increases. It is thought that the startling electric phenomena occurring over an active volcano may be due to a radioactive emanation accompanying the escape of the volcanic gases and vapors.

Trick Costs Hubby a Tie.

The husband who had always left the buying of neckties to his wife exhibited a scar of startling colors rather sheepishly when he came home to dinner. The tie was the sort that a maiden aunt living in Utica might have sent him. "I'm sorry," he explained humbly, "but I couldn't help buying it. I was hurrying for my train along Forty-second street when I looked down and saw a $5 bill on the pavement. I stopped to pick it up and found it fastened there somehow. Then I discovered it was in front of a stand that these neckties were being peddled from. The crowd gave me the merry laugh and I had to buy one of the things to keep my self-respect."—New York Sun.

BEARD IN HISTORY

At Times Fashionable and Again Severely Frowned On.

Public Opinion as to the Desirability of the Facial Appendage Changes Without Warning Reasons.

The prophets of fashion in England announce that beards are to be worn once more. Upon what signs and tokens the prediction is founded does not appear. It is hardly to be contended that the beard has become a more common object, or that in social intercourse a new interest in beards is to be observed, but one must not discredit prophets. What the impulse is, which inspires one century with a desire for beards is so much a mystery as that craving for the razor which marks another. No man knows why beards grew again in Victorian England after two hundred years of shaving. It is easy to say that King Edward VII. set the fashion, but that only puts the difficulty in another manner. We cannot tell why the prince of Wales of Queen Victoria's reign should have chosen to wear what no king had worn since Charles I. But the changes of fashion have been many. Even in England, observes Henri Pickard in the Cincinnati Enquirer, according to the Bayeux tapestry, Edward the Confessor had a beard, but not Harold. The Normans who came to England with the Conqueror were clean-shaven, but it was a new fashion in Normandy. Though a vehement prelate called bearded men "filthy goats and bristly Saracens," there was for four hundred years no dominant fashion in England. Mustaches, beards, and shaven faces were all to be found. Henry V made shaving the rule until beards came in again with Henry VIII. But, lest any man be alarmed by that precedent, it must be said that the first defender of the faith was only following a European fashion sanctioned by Pope Julius II and the Emperor Charles V.

The Elizabethans were bearded, and very elaborately, for they cut their beards to all manner of shapes, perfumed them, dyed them, starched them, powdered them. Under the first Stuarts the beard became a chin tuft. By the beginning of the eighteenth century every man was clean-shaven. At the end of it mustaches and whiskers were coming in again. At first these decorations were military. Every Englishman remembers how Olive Newton, who was only a painter, amused the marquis of Farnborough by wearing mustaches. In the middle of the century Dickens went abroad, clean-shaven and grew himself a pair. "They are beautiful, beautiful," he wrote. "Without them, life would be a blank." George IV shaved clean. In the year 1840 George Frederick Munn, who, to be sure, was a degenerate radical, brought a "huge black beard" into the house of commons, where such a thing had not been seen for two centuries, and timid folk expected the immediate end of all things. The prince, however, let his hair grow on his face, and whiskers became longer and longer; but even in 1857 people thought it desperately bold of Livingstone to "brave" the prejudices of his countrymen wearing a mustache, and within the last 40 years a bishop was blamed for wearing a beard. Who knows what the next turn of fashion may be? Until the war it seemed that the clean-shaven face was likely to become the rule once more. The war's crop of mustaches still flourishes and anything may happen next, even a new Dundreary.

Warship Sails Up Amazon.

The British warship Pelorus, a twin screw, protected, third class cruiser, drawing 17 feet of water, recently made a voyage of 2,300 miles up the Amazon river from Para, Brazil to Iquitos, Peru.

In traversing the upper reaches, which are uncharted, it was thought best to anchor at night; but the ship met with no accident, got back to Para in good time, and literally astonished the natives all the way.

It is said that an American and an Italian warship, small river boats, went up the Amazon years before that; but no vessel as large as the Pelorus, so far as can be ascertained, ever before penetrated so far to within 500 miles of the Pacific coast, and the achievement gave new impetus to the hope that it will be easier to open to commerce and civilization the rich but little-known interior of a vast continent.

Japanese Honor Christians.

Japan in recent years has given more and more public recognition to Christianity. At the coronation of the present emperor several Christians were included in the list of Japanese who received honors, some of them, like Rev. Dr. Motoda, headmaster of St. Paul's college, Tokyo, and Miss Ume Tenda, principal of a school for girls, being so prominent as Christian workers that their selection implied an approval of their work. Never before had Christians been so honored by the throne.

"What I like about this actor is his ability to sink his identity in the part."

"He's playing a hard drinker." "That's just the point." "He ought to be able to play that part well. He's been rehearsing it for 20 years."—Birmingham Age Herald.

Why the B-G Results Are Sure

The "hot spot" disk heats in an instant and, with the electrodes and porcelain is at a temperature that highly vaporizes the gas and oil at the sparking points and inside the plug chamber. When the spark occurs, the vapor in the interior of plug, which forms a primary combustion chamber, burns cleanly, and the instantaneously increased pressure results in a spurt of flame into the cylinder.

This action prevents carbonization of the porcelain, scours the sparking points, and compels quick and complete ignition, with maximum power and fuel economy.

Thousands of enthusiastic users have found every single B-G promise fulfilled to the letter.

A SLANDERER EXPOSED.

The Prohibition party of Ulster County makes this idiotic statement in its platform: "The worst thing with which we have to contend is the public press. That much of it is controlled by the liquor interests is apparent." This is off the same piece as other utterances made from time to time by the "Rev." P. Nut Chase. Anybody other than a hopeless moron knows that the liquor interests do not now and never did control any part of the press other than their own trade journals. Will this cowardly slanderer, who spurs his venom from the shelter of clerical garments, state who is or ever was the agent of the liquor interests who corrupted newspapers, or in what newspaper the liquor interests hold or held controlling stock? If "Dr." Chase can spare a little time from vilifying other people and will read Revelations XXI, 8, he will find himself described twice, together with a picture of his latter end unless he repents in sackcloth and ashes.

REACTION.

The New York Times (Democrat) is one of the newspapers of the state which enjoys the respect and confidence of the people. From time to time it has passed its opinion on what has been accomplished by the Miller administration. The Times takes an unprejudiced position as to what has been done, and what it says can be relied upon as sound and sincere. In a recent issue (August 16) The Times answered a criticism of Governor Miller by Herbert C. Pell, Jr., Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, in which the latter made a reference to Governor Miller's "unsympathetic attitude on matters relating to welfare of women and children." Taking an opposite view to that of the Democratic chairman, The Times says:

"Chairmen of political committees have more than poetic license of imagination; and the fervor of their language not even Mr. Gradgrind would wish to cool into facts. Still, some political poetry may be of doubtful political value. Thus our amiable and accomplished friend, Mr. Herbert C. Pell, Jr., Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is acting within the terms of his barbs, is, indeed, a seer and vates, when he predicts overwhelming Republican defeat in this state next fall. But when he describes Governor Miller as 'a reactionary of the pronounced type,' speaks of 'his unsympathetic attitude on matters affecting the welfare of women and children who toil,' and of 'the feeling everywhere that his heart beats in unison with those who seek special favors, one may admire his fancy, but must question his judgment."

"Governor Miller's temperate and constructive policy in regard to welfare legislation is appreciated at its true value by all save a few hobby-riders and fanatics. These, for instance, sought, with the best of intentions, to thrust upon working women a 'protection' that they objected to and that would have injured their economic position. The talk about 'special favors' should be left to Mr. Hylan and his associate political mythologists. Intelligent and independent voters are not to be won in that way. As for 'reactionary,' it is actually becoming a term of honor. Energy, will, successful leadership, the simplification of government, reduction of its cost—if these things are 'reactionary,' Governor Miller is a 'reactionary,' and a good many citizens of the state applaud reaction and want more of it."

It is reported that more than 30 new amendments to the Constitution are being pressed by various organizations. The worst of it is that they are not real amendments or modifications of anything in the Constitution but quite new as well as drastic laws. If this sort of thing goes on, the Constitution's body will be wagged by an enormous and ever-growing tail, utterly inconsistent with and directly contrary to the great principles announced by its framers in 1787.

Piqua, Ohio, has become so virtuous that it permits no newspapers, no street cars, no sales of tobacco, gasoline or soda water, on Sunday. On the first blue law Sunday even paid organists and choristers were visited by the police and their names recorded. The next logical step would be to close the churches on the ground that the ministers are paid for their labors, in some cases accepting stated salaries for their Sunday work.

By speaking in Chinese Secretary Denby surprised the President of China and everybody else—except those who knew that he spent 15 years in China when his father was American minister there.

2. Can a whale breathe under water?
3. Can any other birds but parrots and mockingbirds imitate other bird's notes?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Why is horse-radish called by that name?

The "horse" prefix has nothing to do with equines, except as the idea of a horse's size and strength has caused the use of the word as an adjective meaning large or coarse. Horse radish belongs botanically with the Cruciferae, or mustards. Horse chestnut and horse beans are similar cases of the prefix.

2. Why do birds eat gravel, and why doesn't it hurt their insides?

The seed eating birds need the aid of the sharp gravel to cut or grind up the rather dry hard substance of their food. The husk to seed is cracked in the bill, but no grinding done there. The walls of the stomach of these birds are tough, constructed to withstand the friction of the sand.

3. Are there any wild horses left in this country?

Wild in the sense that escaped domestic stock may revert to a "wild" state. In Nevada at one time bands of roaming horses were so troublesome in running down domestic cattle, and calling off domestic horses to join their vagrant bands, the law was temporarily relaxed to allow them to be shot. A good many escaped horses running wild are troublesome in areas like wild-life refuges, and constitute a problem. If they can be killed, the way is at once opened, for thievish hunters to kill also domestic horses and sell their hides.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 22.—The parental slipper was invoked today to cure the wanderlust and stage ambitions of Harold Bouchia, aged 9, and his 8-year-old sister, Mildred. They had been found sleeping in a Warren street doorway and were engaged in relating their adventures to the police at the Old Slip station when the report of their disappearance was received from headquarters. Harold and Mildred have imaginations that were working on all six cylinders when the "S. O. S." call from their mother was received. They said they lived in Roxbury, Mass., that they came to New York as stowaways and that they were all set to go upon the stage. They said that several chorus girls who lived at Roxbury had given them the lowdown on how to get theatrical jobs.

ALL ON MISSING SEAPLANE SAVED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 22.—After being given up for lost, three men on the Aeromarine seaplane Ambassador II, which had been missing since Sunday morning, were rescued from the Atlantic Ocean by a fishing smack early today, and landed at Long Beach, Long Island.

The battered seaplane was sighted riding the crest of mountainous billows, the pilot, mechanic and passenger clinging to it. With a great deal of difficulty, the men were rescued. All were exhausted and suffering from exposure, thirst and hunger.

Pilot W. R. Miller said that something had happened to the engine and that the motor shot downwards, taking the water at a sharp angle. The machine was so badly smashed that no effort was made to salvage it.

The Ambassador II, carrying one passenger left Eighty-first street at 7 o'clock Sunday morning to fly to Fire Island and return.

THE MINUTES OF CO. 1 AT MONTAUK POINT

All Hands Well And Hard At Training Game.

I suppose the people of Kingston would all like to know how the boys down at Montauk like the big show. Now of course we all like it and everyone's feeling fine. And are all ready to run where the bugle blows "come and dine."

First there's Captain Ray. Hiltabrant, who's agile and quick, and he keeps the boys looking both snappy and slick.

Next Lieutenant Charles Bahrens of Kingston renown, is quiet and meek with never a frown.

First Sergeant Giles, an unpopular gent, always picking out details from the squads in the tent.

Also Sergeant Fitzgerald, an old timer you know, who is with us yet to make up the show.

Now our Supply Sergeant Pekin wears a smile very sweet, cause his job is to fit us from our head to our feet.

Our Mess Sergeant Preston the best in the land, he gives us our feeds of corn beef and.

Cooks Doffing and Humphrey like horses they work, to camouflage "corn bill" so it tastes like turk.

We mention "Sarg." Gerhardt whom we never see shirk, so he's gone back to Kingston to get ready for work.

Corporal Wayne of the first squad a regular old fox, has Prull, Reymar, Manning, Wood, Bogart and Cox.

Now of the second a tale sad to relate, though they go to bed early they get up very late.

Lawson the corporal, Riel, M. Clair, Smith and Zeh; Norton Van Waggen and B. Clair by the way.

They call themselves bull dogs and bull dogs is right, though it sounds very vicious, barking dogs never bite.

Corporal Burger, (Nubs) they call him for slang, he has Haines, Kelder, Whittaker, Nacarrato and Lang.

We might mention also Privates Kelley and Bliss, and they all find it hard sleeping close to the grass.

Corporal Jordan of the fourth squad who saw service in France, has, Wagner, Marquart, Hinkley, Trinkle and Shantz.

And Privates Mitchell and McNamara by name, their all good soldiers, and onto the game.

Corporal Britolite is in charge of the last squad down the lane, and of course as before we must call them by name.

Schatzel and Mayer's both Dutch by name, and Tremper and Higgins will vouch for the same.

Of course in order that no one feels sore, we mention private Osterhout to make up the corps.

Bugler Atkins' name makes the company complete. Bugler doesn't signify anything sweet, though it calls must be blown, at any cost, we hope before next call, that the bugler is lost.

Alligerville, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Clarence Glaze is entertaining Mrs. Laudram and Mrs. P. Morley of Saginaw at her home in this village.

Mrs. J. Bogart of Lake Mohawk is home for some time, treating a sore finger.

Virgil DeWitt struck a very abundant vein of water in the cellar of the new home his father is building last Monday morning.

Arthur Schoonmaker and family of Jamaica, L. I. are spending their vacation with Mr. Schoonmaker's mother.

Dorothy Brooks of Kingston is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brooks.

Charles Alliger and son of Schenectady spent the past week at the De Grando house, also two miles from Schenectady. All returned to their homes Sunday.

Many of the Jewish people, who have summered here, have returned to their city homes.

Mrs. Elmer Smith and daughter are at Ocean Grove for a two weeks vacation.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, Aug. 21.—The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a peach and ice cream festival on the Methodist Church lawn on Thursday evening, August 24th. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Home made ice cream, soft drinks and cake will be on sale.

Mrs. Charles Wright and three children of New York City are visiting Mrs. Wright's father-in-law, Alfred Wright.

Mrs. Carl Lund was a guest of Mrs. Elmer Lund during the past week.

Miss Caroline Hummel has returned from her visit to her sister, Mrs. Darius Wagar, in New York City. Miss Catherine Hummel is now visiting Mrs. Wagar.

Mrs. Amy Sheeley enjoyed a birthday visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alex Smith, on Friday last. Her granddaughter, Harriet Baker, accompanied her.

JOHNSTOWN BEER WAS MOSTLY "NEAR"

Whole Performance Due to Mayor Cauffiel's Desire for Notoriety, Prohibition Director Davis Reports.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Prohibition Director John T. Davis of Pennsylvania, reported today to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes that the Johnstown, Pa., beer episode resulted from Mayor Cauffiel's desire for "notoriety" and was a "flagrant defiance of the constitution." Davis said there had been no flood of real beer but that much "near beer" had been sold.

"A lot of near beer was passed off as the real article and the drinking public, as usual, was deceived," Davis said. "The Johnstown episode was a public official seeking notoriety in flagrant defiance of the constitution which he had taken oath to support. The liquor situation at Johnstown is under full and satisfactory control of a new and efficient group head, assisted by experienced agents."

Charles Crozier, New York, Plunged Into River and Saved Seven-Year-Old Boy.

As Charles J. Crozier of 518 Tully street, Syracuse, N. Y., was driving a truck across a

Syracuse bridge he happened to look at the river below. Crozier's casual glance underwent a decided change. He saw something in the water. A small hand and arm seemed to be just level with the surface. Not many seconds elapsed until Crozier was beneath the surface of the water to see who was attached to the arm.

The next thing he really saw very distinctly was the small wet body of a seven-year-old boy silhouetted against the white interior of an ambulance. Crozier and William John Hanley, Jr., whose life he had saved, were on their way to the hospital.

For his act of heroism his buddies of the American Legion are helping in the movement to secure for him a Carnegie life-saving medal.

was immediately adopted by the entire state department when she was presented as "one of the directors of the auxiliary's affairs tomorrow."

Bonnie Jean's father, M. P. Kelly, served as first lieutenant of the Ninety-third pursuit squadron of the First army.

ORIGINATED THE GOLD STAR

Medal Showing Appreciation of the Idea Is Presented to J. M. Buck of Omaha, Neb.

A medal purchased with funds given by the governors of many states, General Pershing and a hundred nobles in civil and military circles, has been presented to J. M. Buck of Omaha, Neb., who originated the gold star which was placed on the caskets of all war dead to be returned to this country from European battlefields.

Omaha was a distributing point for the United States graves registration service. After the federal agency began to return bodies from overseas, thousands of caskets passed through Omaha. Mr. Buck suggested to the Omaha American Legion that a gold star be placed on each soldier's casket. The Legion immediately accepted the idea and through the Legion's organization, the custom of placing the star on all soldiers' caskets in all parts of the United States was adopted.

Every contingent of soldier dead arriving at Omaha was met at the railway station by a delegation from the American Legion. Mr. Buck always accompanied the Legionnaires and supervised the placing of the stars on the caskets. The medal was presented Mr. Buck as an expression of appreciation of his work.

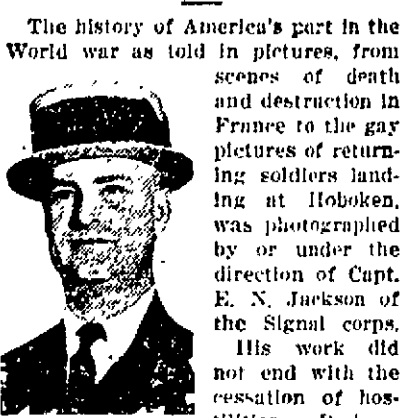

Three Myths. A man's auto had broken down. When he crawled under it no crowd collected and attempted to advise him how to fix it.

A miner was entombed for three days and three nights as the result of a cave-in. When he was finally rescued it was found that his hair had not turned snow white.

A soldier was on guard duty and was approached by an officer who asked him to give his general orders. The sentinel recited them off, making many mistakes, and the officer corrected him, thus revealing the fact that he knew them himself.—American Legion Weekly.

MADE WORLD WAR PICTURES

Capt. E. N. Jackson of Signal Corps Photographed Important Events During Conflict.

The history of America's part in the World War as told in pictures, from scenes of death and destruction in France to the gay pictures of returning soldiers landing at Hoboken, was photographed by or under the direction of Capt. E. N. Jackson of the Signal Corps. His work did not end with the cessation of hostilities. Perhaps his was the most interesting role played by any member of the A. E. F. after the armistice. When President Wilson went to France the story of his activities was photographed by Captain Jackson. Whether the president shook hands with a European soldier, signed an important paper or had dinner with a king, Captain Jackson was there with his camera.

Today, the official photographs taken by Captain Jackson and his staff are to be found in galleries, libraries, public buildings and private homes in every part of the United States. Mr. Jackson no longer a captain, is now clicking the shutter as one of the staff photographers of the New York Daily News. He spends his spare time at the clubrooms of the American Legion, Signal post No. 343, in New York city.

GREETINGS TO THE TOMMIES

Vice Commander Jackson Carried Commander MacNider's Message to the British Legion.

The first man to cross the American continent in an automobile was the first man to cross the Atlantic ocean with a message from American World War service men exclusively to British Tommies. That man is H. Nelson Jackson of Burlington, Vt., one of the national vice commanders of the American Legion, who recently represented the Legion at an annual meeting of the British Legion, made up of World War service men of the British Isles.

During the war Mr. Jackson served in the Medical corps and for gallantry in action was decorated with the D. S. C., Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor of France. He was promoted through the various ranks from first lieutenant to lieutenant colonel.

The greetings which Mr. Jackson presented to the British Legion in behalf of Commander Hanford MacNider declared that: "No generation of our nations have been so closely bound together. Through the coming years it must be our mutual duty to so strengthen and cement these ties that from this great undertaking may come peace to all the world."

SPENT MONTHS IN AN ASYLUM

New Zealand Government Is Probing Case of Subject Imprisoned at Elgin, Ill.

The New Zealand government is investigating the case of Robert M. Thompson of Christchurch, World War veteran, who has just returned to his home in New Zealand, after having spent several months in the asylum for the insane at Elgin, Ill.

Thompson came to the United States after having his health shattered in the war. Acting on the advice of the Canadian government, which looks after New Zealand military pensioners in America, he called at the office of the veterans' bureau in Chicago. A week after Thompson first called at the office of the bureau, he says that he found himself a regular inmate in the asylum at Elgin, receiving very poor food and indifferent treatment.

He finally succeeded in smuggling letters out to a former college friend who took the matter up with the asylum authorities. His release was arranged on the condition that he leave the United States immediately.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Jesup, Ia., with fewer than 800 population has 130 American Legion members.

Strangers seeking help in Correctionville, Ia., must be passed on by a committee of leading citizens, the business men and American Legion posts of the city have decided.

Out of 550 men 276 were found to have some kind of physical disability in a canvass of former service men in Clay county, Iowa, conducted by the American Red Cross and the American Legion.

A delegate at the state American Legion auxiliary convention at Cedar Rapids, Ia., was enthusiastically applauded when she stated on the convention floor that she was "German in birth but wholly American in spirit." She had two sons in service.

POULTRY

FATTENING MARKET POULTRY

Great Variety of Feeds Can Be Used in Preparing Fowl-Broilers Grow Rapidly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

The most desirable types of fowl and the most profitable feeding periods for the different classes of poultry fatten in packing plants are discussed in Department Bulletin 1062, Rations for Feeding Poultry in the Packing House, just issued by the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture. Since the fleshing of poultry has become a large industry in the United States, information of the kind contained in this bulletin should be of a great deal of value.

The results obtained in the experiments reported in this bulletin show that a great variety of feeds can be used in fattening broilers, springs, roasters and hens, a fortunate situation since it permits the feeder to adapt his ration to market conditions by taking advantage of special prices of certain feeds and also to use feeds available locally. A growing bird, such as a broiler or spring, requires a different ration than a mature hen, which changes most of her feed into fat. A simple ration of corn meal and buttermilk is about as good as any for broilers. Broilers fed rations containing protein concentrates, such as peanut meal, coconut oil, soy-bean meal, or meat scrap made appreciably better gains than those fed on corn meal and buttermilk. They grow rapidly and need tissue-forming feeds. Springs also respond readily to rations containing protein concentrates.

Throughout the 14-day feeding period broilers continued to gain well, which shows that this is not too long a feeding period. Springs grew very rapidly during the first 11 days, but not so rapidly, though profitably, during the remaining three days. Roasters gained well during the first two four-day periods, but not so well the last six days. It was found that the practice of feeding hens only six to eight days is well founded. The dressing and chilling shrinkage of hens, however, was much less than in the case of broilers, springs and roasters. Any of the ordinary cereal grains supply the necessary carbohydrates and fats. More care is needed in selecting feeds for protein, salts and vitamins. The proteins of the cereal grains are present in too small amounts and are of too poor quality to produce the best results in broilers and springs unless other protein concentrates are added. Milk and cereals make one of the most profitable rations, as milk supplies mineral substances, vitamins and very valuable proteins. The results given in the bulletin show that peanut meal protein, as well as soy-bean meal protein, is especially valuable. The proteins of buttermilk are especially valuable, and if used in sufficiently large amounts produce very desirable results. Other protein concentrates are meat and fish scraps, cottonseed meal, coconut meal and sesame-seed meal.

Corn, wheat, oats and other grains lack such mineral substances as calcium, sodium and chlorine which growing animals require. In the rations where buttermilk or skim milk is used, these ingredients are fairly well supplied. Milk also supplies vitamins. At present the milk available for poultry-fleshing purposes is largely buttermilk, fresh, condensed or powdered.

Those interested in the fleshing of poultry may get this bulletin by addressing the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

POULTRY NOTES

Hatch chicks early. They make the good winter layers.

Baby chicks should be encouraged to eat as much bulk as possible.

One of the best animal foods, both to induce egg production and promote growth, is cut fresh bone.

Cold, damp land is no place for poultry; that which dries soonest after a rain is the best land on which to raise fowls.

Wheat bran is especially valuable for feathering out the baby chicks, and, properly used, it will grow feathers faster than anything else. It is advisable to keep it in the dry form before the chicks all the time.

TWO MEN HELD UP AT GUN'S POINT

C. R. Sutton and Richard Krum Ordered to Halt by Two Masked Bandits at LeFever Falls Monday Night—Bandits Escape in Krum's Car Forcing Him to Drive Them.

Richard Krum of the Subway, Lunch on Railroad avenue and his friend C. R. Sutton of Montana, found that Kingston and vicinity stage holds up as thrilling as in the balmy days of the wild and woolly west. The two men had gone out for a drive in Krum's car Monday evening and when near LeFever Falls two men leaped out in the road in front of the car and ordered them to halt. They enjoyed their demands with a leveled revolver, and Krum applied the brakes and brought his car to a sudden stop. Sutton and Krum found that the two men who had stopped them were masked with handkerchiefs. While one bandit carried a gun the other was armed with an iron bar.

They made Krum and Sutton alight from the car and went through their clothing. From Sutton they obtained a diamond ring, a gold watch and a gold chain, and also took a valuable Krum had with him. After robbing the two men they got in the car with them and drove them towards Kingston.

When they had gotten as far as the Rosendale road they overhauled another car in which were riding three other men who evidently were members of the same gang for they greeted the two holdup men fraternally. Then the two bandits ordered Krum to follow the other car towards Kingston and when near the city line they alighted from Krum's car and got in with the other three men.

The two bandits then informed Krum that if he followed or attempted to force them they would shoot him and the last he saw of them was when they headed towards Kingston.

As Krum was unarmed he decided the best policy would be to drive back towards LeFever Falls and pick up Sutton which he did.

Sutton and Krum did not report the holdup to police headquarters until 10 o'clock this morning. As the bandits were masked they were unable to furnish a description of them to the police. They also reported the holdup to the sheriff's office.

HERMANC FINDS
ADVERTISING PAYS

So Now He Is Advertising The Big Yellow Elberta Peaches That He Sells At His Wayside Market.

L. M. Hermance, proprietor of "The Little White House by the Wayside," nearly opposite the brick church at Clister Park, advertises Elberta peaches in The Freeman today. Mr. Hermance tried out this experiment last year of marketing his fruit direct to the consumers through advertising in The Freeman and met with such success that this year his "Peaches; drive in" sign has been supplied by "The little white house" which is located right along the state road and which he keeps stocked with fruit from his farm. By eliminating cartage, freight and commission merchant's percentage, he says he is enabled to give the purchaser a bargain and still get as good a net price for his fruit as if he shipped it to the big cities. Mr. Hermance does not sell mere rubbish and culls at his wayside market, but tries to obtain steady customers by giving a square deal.

QUOTATIONS AT PUBLIC MARKET

The public market at Cornell street showed brisk trading and sold out early today. Elberta peaches are expected on the market next week, the yellow free stone kind to use in canning.

The quotations today:

Love of Labor.

Man must work. That is certain as the sun. But he may work grudgingly; or he may work gratefully; he may work as a man, or he may work as a machine. He cannot always choose his work, but he can do it in a generous temper, and with an up-looking heart. There is no work so rude that he may not exalt it; there is no work so unimportant that he may not breathe a soul into it; there is no work so dull that he may not enliven it.—Henry Giles

THREE HARD TILTS
FOR COLONIALS

Wednesday afternoon at the Kingston Fair grounds The Federal Sugar Refining Company baseball squad will furnish the opposition to the Schrickmen. This team journeyed to this city last week Wednesday and played the local team, the game resulting in favor of the Colonials 6 to 5. Rossback, the Colonials' newly signed hurler, will probably be on the mound.

On Saturday the Peckskill A. C. of Brooklyn will battle with the local aggregation and a stiff contest is expected. Early in the season this team was seen in action and favorably impressed the fans, as they battled the Colonials in a thirteen inning contest, losing out 7 to 6.

Sunday, the Tannersville team will play their fourth game of the season with the Colonials and an interesting game is looked for. The mountaineers have the best of the local aggregation, 2 to 1 and the Schrickmen have to win this game to be able to compete in the best out of five series.

WETMORE'S TEAM TO BE TRAVELING OUTFIT

Fred G. Wetmore, manager of the Poughkeepsie Parker Aale Regulars, has quit Poughkeepsie baseball and from now on will make the Regulars a traveling club. This action followed the announcement of the Poughkeepsie Board of Public Works that they would turn over Riverview Park on Labor Day to Skip McCarthy, manager of the Poughkeepsie Industrials. After twenty-one years of managing teams in Poughkeepsie, Wetmore stated, he was not given a square deal.

In the transformation of Wetmore from the Poughkeepsie field into a traveling club, he announces several changes in his line-up, which he will use for the rest of the season. Wetmore stated that he has lost $1,500 this season.

Arizona's Petrified Forest.

The petrified forest of Arizona is really a series of petrified forests. There are four of these forests included in a government reservation called Petrified Forest National monument, created by presidential proclamation in 1906. The name "forest" is not strictly appropriate, for the petrified tree trunks are all prostrate and are broken into sections. The logs are the remains of giant trees that grew in Triassic time, the age of reptiles. Some of the tree trunks are six feet in diameter and more than a hundred feet in length. In the first forest there is a fine trunk that forms a natural bridge over a small ravine, the water having first washed away the overlying clay and sand and then, following a crevice, worked out the channel underneath. The length of this log is 110 feet, and the diameter four feet at the butt and one and one-half feet at the top. These facts have been given out by the United States geological survey.

Ice Railway in Canada.

It is true. On New Year's day, 1880, the Southern railway commenced to build a railway across the ice from the north bank of the St. Lawrence river, at a point near Bellefleur Park and the Longueuil ferry to Longueuil. The promoters of the plan included Judge Monseau, M. A. B. Foster, Mr. L. A. Senecal and Mr. J. R. Renaud. The contractors were August Laberge & Son, the builders of the Montreal city hall. Loaded cars were drawn across the ice to Montreal on January 29, and on January 30 an engine, weighing 50,000 pounds, crossed the ice from the Montreal side of the river. On March 15 horses were used to draw cars instead of engines. There were 20 cars on the ice-railway on March 31, but (as the ice was found to be unsound), on April 1, the rails were removed from the ice.

Origin of Chinese Lost.

The origin of the Chinese is lost in the mists of antiquity, notes K. S. Leconte, in "The Development of China." Native historians believe them to have sprung from the soil and to have evolved their own civilization unaided. Western scholars are more inclined to trace a connection between them and the ancient Sumerians of the Tigris-Euphrates valley, some of whom may have migrated overland to China, bringing their culture with them. H. G. Wells, in his "Outline of History," says that there are evidences in Chinese annals of two prehistoric racial strains, one northern and one southern, that may have mingled their blood and their civilization. Their culture is undoubtedly very ancient.

Stone Kept Time.

There is exhibited in the British museum a large stone, composed of carbonate of lime, which has served as a natural timekeeper. This stone is, indeed, an actual time record for the work done for a long period in an English coal mine. The stone was removed from a colliery drain. When the miners were at work the water passing through the drain left a deposit colored black by the coal dust; but when no work was done the water ran down clear and left a white deposit. In the course of time these deposits built up the stone. Each day of work left a black streak, immediately followed by a white streak made during the night. Wide white streaks indicate the holidays and Sundays.

AS COSGRAVE SEES
IRISH SITUATION

Rebel Leaders Are Mentally Unbalanced And De Valera And Others Are Not Irish—They Are Ireland's Chief Enemies.

By Marlen E. Pew.
(Copyright 1922 by International News Service.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dublin, Aug. 22.—"I am happy to advise friends of the Irish Free State in the United States that we have the Republican irregular situation well in hand and that the beginning of next month will see the end of the fighting." This declaration was made to International News Service today by William T. Cosgrave, who is acting as foreign secretary in the Irish provisional government in succession to the late Arthur Griffith.

Mr. Cosgrave continued:

"The armed force under Eamonn de Valera is a doubtful thousand, whereas a month ago he had probably 10,000 at his command.

We estimate the material damage done in the fighting at $100,000,000. The greatest loss, however, was in retarding constructive plans which the government contemplated carrying out in the next three years.

"De Valera and his fellow leaders are unquestionably unbalanced. Their followers are made up of men overwrought by their war experience and by idleness.

"As a distinguished American prelate said this morning, 'De Valera is a mathematician and his chief fondness is in making divisions.'

"It should be borne in mind that De Valera, Erskine Childers and many other leaders associated with them, are not Irish. Many of them did not fire a single shot when the Irish were conducting war against the Black and Tans. They are trying their hardest to get the English to return to Ireland, but it is the duty of our government to prevent this catastrophe at all costs. There is every prospect that for the next month the chief business of the Dublin government will be of a military nature.

"Many ask why the government does not arrest the irregular leaders and treat them harshly. But these people that ask this question would be the first to cry out if the government did adopt such measures.

"To arrest the Republican leaders would only 'martyrize' them. They are fast wearing themselves out. Even if the government was forced to arrest De Valera, it would release him as soon as the danger is past.

"The action of the irregulars are deeply regretted, not only on account of the losses, but because they have been retarding the progress of the country. The world expects much from the Free State, but the activities of the irregulars have given the world a false opinion of the character of the Irish people.

"Night shootings and other cowardly tactics are having a bad effect on the people of Dublin, particularly the women and children. They are suffering from high nervous tension which is injurious to the health.

"The whole tragic post-war experience is amazing to us. A year ago we would have said that such a thing was unthinkable. We would have said it was impossible for Irishmen to take up arms against fellow Irishmen."

"What is the leading constructive measure now planned?" Mr. Cosgrave was asked.

He replied:
"It is impossible to do anything until the present military situation is solved. But our minds are anxiously turning to thoughts of relief for the people and to the correcting of age-long wrongs which our people have suffered.

"The greatest immediate necessity is housing and coping with unemployment. The unemployed in Dublin alone are estimated at one out of every twenty of the population.

"You see terrible conditions in the slums of Parnell and Gloucester streets. They cry out for relief. It is heart-sickening to think that money which should be spent for the relief of these poor people, has to be spent in military measures for the defense of the Free State.

"Ireland needs 70,000 more houses. The government has appropriated under a sound financial scheme, 5,000,000 pounds sterling for this purpose. We are only awaiting a cessation of hostilities to begin work of relieving the housing shortage.

"The government's chief objective was to make every citizen feel that he had the protection of a stable government; also, to educate a high civic spirit in everyone in the community. Equitable land division is a high necessity. The English rule made for bad economic conditions as has been exemplified by the living conditions in Conemara and West Ireland, where the people are on the verge of starvation and are badly housed. Their futile lives contrast with those of the rich. The level tracts of Ireland are barely inhabited. One problem is to break up the unwieldy estates into small farms. This demands a redistribution of the Irish people and redistribution of the lands. But I want to make plain that the Free State government does not plan confiscation.

"The irregulars have lost their sense of the right or personal property. This has been shown by the holding up of banks and the commandeering of the goods of private citizens.

"What has been drawn from the constitution of the United States for the new Irish constitution?" Mr. Cosgrave was asked.
Mr. Cosgrave answered:
"C. J. France, of the United States, has been acting as adviser to the constitutional committee. The draft of the constitution embodies most of the ideas of Mr. France. The noble spirit of the American constitution is highly prized here and doubtless it had a great bearing upon the work of Mr. France. Ireland deeply appreciates the patient sympathy of the United States and craves the indulgence of the United States in the present moment of Irish embarrassment.

"I learned that sixty-nine well-wishers from the United States who intended to visit us recently, returned on the next boat without coming into the country because they feared for their lives. This is a bitterly disappointing piece of news. But I believe that I can promise Americans a good vacation in Ireland next summer."

Mr. Cosgrave is regarded as the ablest administrator in the Irish provisional government. He is holding two portfolios—minister of home affairs and foreign secretary. He has had twenty years of experience in civic affairs in Dublin and in that time has been interested in all the reform movements. He is an excellent team-mate for Michael Collins—the aggressive soldier and man of action.

Mr. Cosgrave conferred during the morning with Archbishop Curley of Baltimore and with Bishop Turner of Buffalo, N. Y.

Great Lawyers' Errors.

Like many other great lawyers, Lord Halsbury made his own will, and did not do it satisfactorily. Affidavits from the witnesses were required as to its execution and condition before it could be admitted to probate. The list of eminent lawyers who made a muddle of drawing their own wills is a long one. Lord St. Heller, who, as Sir Francis Jeune, was for many years President of the Probate Division of the High Court, left as a will a document which transgressed most of the rules and requirements for a valid will, and Lord Grimthorpe left a series of testamentary documents which were the subject of litigation and whose intention it was impossible to ascertain. Two other great chancellors, Lord Brougham and Lord Lyndhurst, left unsatisfactory wills, while that of Lord St. Leonards could never be found. Judge Tentoul and Judge Bacon were also among numerous others whose wills were not in order.—London Times.

Sulphur in the Soil.

Experiments made in this country are regarded as proving the generally prevailing theory that sulphur in the soil is of little value for promoting fertility, as compared with phosphorus and nitrogen, is erroneous and that sulphur is, in fact, of vast importance. Continuous cultivation, together with insufficient fertilization, causes a large annual loss of sulphur, which cannot be compensated from the atmosphere, and little is brought up by capillarity from the subsoil. The experimenters, therefore, recommend the application of fertilizers containing sulphur to lands which are frequently cropped. The failure hitherto to recognize the great value of sulphur in the soil is ascribed to faulty analytic methods employed by early investigators.

Odds Are Against Criminal.

Virtually all people who commit a major crime disappear if they have time to make a getaway. But it does not do the majority of them much good. Within a few hours or at most a few days the so-called long arm of the law has them by the neck. Those who do get away pit their wits against a system, which is nearly unbeatable. No matter what the individual fugitive thinks about the individual detective, the latter is part of a system which commands more brains, more money and a longer memory than all the fugitives in the world. In addition to this, the fugitive must work largely alone, while the detective has all the resources of his highly efficient organization behind him.

Royal "Stuarts."

Stuart, Stewart or Stuart coming from the word steward, is the name of a royal family of Scotland, later transferred to England. Its progenitor was a Norman baron, Alan, whose grandsons went over to Scotland, where one of them was made high steward to David I, the king. Various lands were conferred upon him in appreciation of his services, among them Paisley, where the shawls used to be made and where he built a monastery. His grandson was third steward and so on down to the sixth steward, who wedded the daughter of Robert Bruce, the son of this couple ascending to the throne of Scotland in 1370. It was Mary, queen of tragic memory, who was the first to spell the name Stuart.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

About a month ago, we called attention to the fuel scarcity and told of the steps we had taken to insure the continuous operation of our gas plants.

Since that time we have continued to use every effort to maintain our coal supply and at present we have approximately thirty days' supply in storage.

On the recommendation of the State Fuel Commission and the Utilities Fuel Committee, we are now asking your cooperation in the matter of saving fuel in this emergency.

BURN FEWER LIGHTS—Save Gas.

TURN THEM OFF WHEN NOT NEEDED—Do this when leaving a room or office whether you are paying for it or not.

BURN GAS IN MANTLES, NOT IN FLAT-FLAME BURNERS—The old-fashioned flat-flame burner uses more gas and gives less light—ask your gas company about substituting the mantle burner.

CONSERVE ALL LIGHT AND HEAT—Remember that the waste of light and heat is a loss of coal. Keep in mind daily the necessity during the present emergency for the utmost economy in the use of facilities requiring the consumption of fuel.

We trust that we may have your cooperation in the effort to conserve fuel in order that there may be no interference with the operation of service essential to the health and welfare of our City.

"EVERWELL" OUTING HELD SATURDAY

The members of the firm of Everett & Treadwell Co., their employees and immediate families had an outing Saturday afternoon that will long be remembered by those present.

The day was ideal for such an occasion and about 65 enjoyed the festivities of the day. The objective was the Glenford Hills where W. F. Niles, secretary of the firm; Charles E. Everett, city salesman, and Professor Lewis have summer camps. A better place for such an outing could not have been found. Transportation for all was furnished by automobiles of officers and employees, and two of the firms delivery trucks.

All kinds of athletic sports were indulged in during the afternoon. Frank Carter taking first prize for doing the most difficult "stunt" by walking up the mountain or his hands.

The quiet pitching contest, in which all participated, even Major Everett, was won by the salesmen's team. The volley ball games were closely contested, but the girls from the office won a majority of these. The tug of war between the salesmen and chauffeurs was won by the salesmen. The watermelon eating contest was won by "Lodie" McLane, who got away with 1 1/2 lbs.

At the close of the athletic events "chow" was announced and everyone was ready with plate, cup and spoon. Some "cats" and some were "some cats." Coffee was furnished, prepared and served by Edwin Paelin of this city, who is the local representative of the Cheep, Neal Coffee Co. Some of the boys who kept account said that Sherman Lennov, on whose property the camps are located, got away with 14 cups.

After everyone was satisfied and could hold no more, ice cream and cigars were passed around and, reluctantly the crowd began to disperse. It was nine o'clock when the last cars reached this city, and every one will anxiously await the next outing which will undoubtedly be held next summer.

LEIBHARDT.

BRITISH CABINET REAL GOVERNMENT

Duties of Cabinet Members Differ
in Various Countries.

OURS CABINET IN NAME ONLY

While Members Have Legal Standing as Heads of Departments, There is Not Even Formal Sanction for the Existence of Our Cabinet as an Advisory Council to the President—
Washington Held No Cabinet Meetings at First.

Geography necessarily deals with kings and presidents and emperors,
who change the face of political maps
and influence economic conditions. Not so frequently does it reckon with cabinets, which are a growing factor in world affairs.

"Before the World War broke up the autocracies of Europe, France was the only republic on the continent employing the British form of cabinet government. Now the list includes,
besides France: Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria," states a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.)
headquarters of the National Geographic society.

Our Cabinet Different.
"Recent agitation to permit members of the United States cabinet to be present on the floor of the senate and house and to take part in debate
on matters concerning their departments serves to bring out the differences between the privileges and duties of the cabinet members of various countries.

"To begin with, the 'cabinet' of the United States is a cabinet in name only, for the government of the United States is in no sense a 'cabinet government' as are the governments of Great Britain and France, and those of a large number of the other leading countries of the world. There is not even a formal sanction for the existence of our cabinet as an advisory council to the President. The members have an undoubted legal status as heads of the various administrative departments, but the President need never call them together.
President Washington held no cabinet
meetings at first, and President Wilson did not call his department heads together for a period of many months.
When the President does receive the advice of his cabinet, he is under no obligation to follow it.

"Great Britain is 'the mother' of cabinets' as well as 'the mother of parliaments.' Her cabinet is not of a fixed size, and while most members are heads of departments, there may be members 'without portfolio' who have no special duties. In direct contrast to the situation in the United States, every member must be a member of either the lower or upper house of parliament. All have seats in both houses, and therefore not only have the privilege of debating but also of voting. Of greatest importance,
when an important vote in the house of commons goes against the cabinet its members must resign, so as to permit a new cabinet, usually of the opposing political party, to be formed.

"The cabinet, under the British system, is really a committee of the house of commons which the party in power permits to manage all executive affairs, and to shape and lead all legislative action. The cabinet in action is the real government; while it functions the prime minister is the real ruler, and parliament is his instrument.

"But there are checks and balances.
The house of commons can force the resignation of the cabinet, and the cabinet can force the dissolution of the house. The matter is thus put squarely up to the people, who elect another house, from the majority party
of which a new cabinet is chosen.

"Practically all of the older part of the western world is under cabinet government. This includes all of Europe except Russia and Switzerland, South Africa, and the French portions of North Africa. Canada brings a large part of North America into the cabinet column. In the East, Australia and New Zealand have true cabinet governments, Japan has a slightly modified form, and China a nominal
one.

Chile Has Real Cabinet.
"The constitutions of most of the countries of the western hemisphere have been modeled after that of the United States with an absence of responsible cabinets. Chile is the only republic of the new world with a cabinet whose members both sit in congress and must resign when there is a formal vote of 'lack of confidence.'

"The British cabinet form of government came into existence by a series of happy accidents. Because the old privy council became such a large, unwieldy body, the king fell into the habit of consulting with only the few leaders, holding a small council in his cabinet or private apartment. Shortly afterward England had two German kings who could not understand English, and the 'cabinet council' was permitted to meet without the sovereign.
By the time an English-speaking king
came to the throne the custom of excluding the king from cabinet meetings had been firmly fixed.

"By degrees the king practically lost his power to dismiss the cabinet, and it became responsible first to parliament, and then solely to the house of commons."

ELUSIVE SOCIETY BURGLAR NOW IN BERLIN PRISON

Was Seized in a Luxurious Bachelor Apartment Surrounded by Costly Loot.

Karl Friedrich Bernotat, society
man and resident of one of the most exclusive quarters of Berlin, is awaiting trial in a Berlin prison as the most elusive society burglar the police have dealt with since the war. His thefts, committed mostly in daylight,
amount to millions of marks.

He was arrested in his luxurious bachelor apartment after the police had discovered that he was the same man whose thumb prints and other measurements in the record bureau had been stolen and that a paper slip had been pasted over the face of his picture in the rogues' gallery and the word "died" written across it.

According to the police charges, Ber-notat kept two automobiles in which he drove to the finest apartment
houses of the city and, immaculately
dressed, always gained admittance without question. Once inside he entered apartments whose occupants he knew to be absent and rifled them at will. He was known at the best restaurants and in social circles in which he moved as "Director" Bernotat. The police declare he retained the title
from having once been a director of a gambling house.

Bernotat's apartment was furnished
in the most luxurious style with expensive paintings, tapestries and silver, many articles being identified as having been stolen.

MESSANGER HAS HANDLED RADIUM WORTH $3,000,000

Hugh McGovern, special messenger
for the American Railway Express, handling a package of radium to Miss Marion Winsor of the United States
Radium Corporation, New York. Mr.
McGovern handles radium shipments exclusively. In the past five years he has handled radium valued at approximately $8,000,000.

MAKES WOODS FARM LAND

Woman Rides Tractor and Breaks
Ground for Crops.

Tiring of her 35 years' residence in the city of Chicago, where she reared her family of five, Mrs. Dolly Perker cast her lot with Osceola township in Michigan and now she gamely sits aboard her tractor and watches the furrows roll over as she plows her 150-acre farm.

Her "new baby," as she affectionately describes her tractor, is her mainstay, and with it she easily is able to handle her largest crops.

Her specialties are beet and hay.
Her side line is with the pole and line,
and her success as an angler keeps
pace with that as a farmer.

She broke much of the land on her farm herself. Stump blasting and hauling stones were daily tasks in the days when the land was primitive.

In the winter the scene shifts from the Osceola farm to the fireside in Chicago, where her husband still carries mail. Some day she plans to sever the last link with the great city and settle down in the rural home she prepared for herself.

BRIDES LIKE WOMAN PARSON

London's "Marrying" Minister Popular
—She Leaves Out Word "Obey."

English women are equaling their American sisters in the scope of their occupations. Women legislators, lawyers, physicians and sculptors are fairly common in both countries, but now London comes along with a woman "marrying parson." She is Rev.
Constance Colman, a graduate of Oxford university, and joint pastor of one of the west end's fashionable churches.

Some women like to be married by Miss Colman; she does not ask them to use the word "obey," in fact, tells them to avoid it. She requests the bride and groom to present each other with a ring, repeating the words:
"As this ring now encircles thy finger, so let my love surround thee all the days of thy life."

Millions of Melons This Year.

The abundant crop of water melons
in the early-producing states was predicted by the department of agriculture, which placed the total at 60-102 carloads, compared with 51,481 cars last year. There was an increase in acreage planted, the department said, from 117,000 to 128,100 acres.

Precious Object Revealed by Science.

Science is performing marvels in restoring old prints and other antiques.
What was apparently a block of wood found in Peru beneath 14 feet
of guano, proved, on expert treatment, to be a carving of great age.

QUITE AT HOME IN JUNGLE

Many American Boys Would Keenly
Enjoy the Life Led by Youthful English Naturalist.

Guy Wernham, a London boy naturalist, who is not yet sixteen years of age, has traveled 8,000 miles to collect specimens for the natural history department of the British museum. He is now in the jungle—in the French Camerouns, which is one of the richest fields in the world for natural history specimens, according to London Tit-Bits.

The boy is a flame of enthusiasm for everything scientific, and, as his father, Herbert Fuller Wernham, D.
Sc., F. L. S., is an expert on tropical plants, Guy has been in the right atmosphere for acquiring knowledge.

Familiar with much of the proceed-
ure and appliances of research work,
he has a ferocious curiosity concerning all forms of life—botanical, moth,
bird and beast. He devours information on nature from books and life,
and packs it away in mental pigeon-
holes.

Writing from Elat, Guy said: "You would be surprised to hear the noise made by insects at night. There are millions of grasshoppers and crickets,
which keep up a constant singing,
made by rubbing their hind legs, which are made like rasps, against their wing-cases."

He described the jungle as "a huge hothouse, but with an infinitely great variety of plants, with the addition of birds, animals, lizards and butterflies rivaling the flowers in brightness of colors."

Toward the end of his journey, on a rough bush track, he was picked up by Doctor Welcher of the American mission, who was riding a motorcycle. It was a strange meeting. The natives were very curious about Guy, and had to be assured again and again by Mr.
Buck, of the mission, that "he's a real boy."

At Bitje Guy will attend to his collecting, but already a journey across Nigeria is projected. He wants anything interesting—bats, butterflies,
birds, squirrels, weasels and plants of all kinds. He goes out at night and "sugars" the trees, collecting the intoxicated insects from them during the day.

Though vessels leave Duala for Liverpool almost every week white men in the interior, owing to the bush difficulties, can neither receive nor send mails except at intervals of two or three months. But this is not good enough for Guy, who is planning to set up a portable wireless apparatus
so that he can send and receive from Duala, and so get news to and from home quickly.

Guy can speak and read French and has a knowledge of geology. He is able to draw a bird or plant from life
so faithfully that a naturalist can identify it.

Bluing Steel.

To blue steel, mix finely powdered
Prussian blue with rather thin shellac,
then gently heat and apply the varnish.

Pandora's Box.

Pandora, in the mythology of the Greeks and Romans, was the first woman. She was made in heaven, and every god contributed something to perfect her, and this is the significance of her name, Pandora, the "all gifted."
While she was in the home of Epi-metheus she "discovered" a jar—the famous "Pandora's box"—in which were contained a number of noxious qualities which the Titan had decided not to make use of when he gave man his set of personal characteristics. One day Pandora opened the lid to see what the jar contained and a multitude of unpleasant matters flew out, burdening the human race with many disorders of the body and equally unfortunate distempers of the mind. She attempted to put back the lid, but before she could do so all the plagues had escaped. Only one thing remained in the jar and, when that was examined,
it was found to be hope, which ever since has prevailed to lighten the hardships which the remainder of the jar's contents have brought upon mankind.

Dangling Under a Balloon.

Three men were holding a balloon
while it was being filled with gas at Maine-et-Loire, France, when it suddenly shot aloft. One man let go his hold when he was but a few feet from the ground and was uninjured. The second man held until he had been carried nearly 100 feet in the air and then dropped. He was killed. The third man became entangled in the drag rope, and was carried skyward dangling 800 feet under the runaway balloon and was entirely helpless. An airplane was summoned and sent to the rescue and when he first sighted
the runaway it was at least 6,000 feet in the air. By the time he had overtaken it, the balloon started to descend and it landed its unwilling passenger in a tree. His injuries were slight but his experiences were thrilling.

German Time in England.

The extent to which clocks have been imported into Great Britain from Germany during the first four months
of the present year has been remarkable. Out of an aggregate number of 1,194,732 complete clocks from all countries, no less than 1,115,614 came from Germany, or considerably more than 40,000 above the number received during the same period in 1913.
While for the same four months of 1920 the imports of complete clocks were 600,773 and 681,882 in 1921.

A Frost.

"Mrs. Newrich expected that her daughter when she brought her out would be quite a society bud, but the party leaders took no notice of her."
"An. nipped her hopes in the bud,
so to speak."—Boston Transcript.

First Life Insurance Policy.

The first recorded life insurance policy was issued in London in 1583
on the life of Lillian Du Gybonns for 12 months. It was underwritten by 15 individuals, the premium being $50
a $500.

Old Canadian City.

Portage-La-Prairie is the French for prairie portage or carrying place. For it was near the site of the city that the old fur traders set out from the Assiniboine river to carry to or cross to Lake Manitoba. Early the French had a trading post there and it was long a thriving business when French Canada was ceded to Great Britain in 1763.

BOUTON GETS HIGH PRAISE

Republican Designation By Ulster-Delaware-Greene Counties For Senator Gets Hearty Approval In Delaware.

The designation of Arthur F. Bouton of Roxbury for the Republican nomination for senator in the Twenty-ninth district to succeed Senator Charles W. Walton, gives great satisfaction to the newspapers of Delaware county, which speak in high terms of praise regarding him, and also of the action taken by the recent Republican county convention held in this city in endorsing him unanimously.

The Roxbury Times says: It is unnecessary for us to say that The Times unqualifiedly endorses Mr. Bouton's nomination and is of the opinion he will make a strong candidate, and this senatorial district will be well represented by him in the senate at Albany for the next two years. Mr. Bouton was born and has lived here all his life. He has always been active in any movement looking for the prosperity or improvement of this section of our state and is well known throughout the district.

The Stamford Mirror-Recorder says: Mr. Bouton needs no introduction to the readers of the Mirror-Recorder or to the people of Delaware county. As an attorney he has acquired a wide reputation, and as a man abundantly qualified for the office there can be no doubt. Mr. Bouton has always been identified with the best interests of his own community and has held many positions of trust, always discharging his duties in a commendable manner. He is a man of the highest type of character and never does things by halves. He will make a good senator.

The Delaware Express of Delhi says: Mr. Bouton needs no introduction to Delaware county voters. Always a staunch Republican, he has been identified with many public enterprises and movements. Of the highest type of character, he will make his constituents a good senator.

The Catskill Mountain News of Margaretville says: The Ulster county Republican committee have endorsed the candidacy of Arthur Bouton of Roxbury for senator, a decision in which Greene county will acquiesce. This assures the honor to one of the foremost citizens of our neighboring town.

The Prattsville (Greene county) News says: The Republicans of this section will be pleased to lend their best support to a candidate so well known to them and so abundantly qualified for this important office.

MILITARY HERO BECOMES TRAMP

Misfortune Drops Him From Riches to Poverty.

WON FORTUNE IN HORSE RACE

From Buck Private in British Army He Rose to Rank of Captain in Crack Cavalry Regiment—If He Hadn't Picked the Winner in the Calcutta Sweepstakes He Might Now Be Well Pensioned Old Soldier With Remunerative Position.

From military honors and riches to poverty and a park bench for a bed is the strange transition in the fortunes of Captain Henry Donald Penn of London.

Ordinarily Penn would have been accounted among this world's lucky ones. From a buck private in the army he rose to the rank of captain, and in addition to that won even a greater distinction—that of drawing the winning horse in the Calcutta sweepstakes. That brought him a fortune of $150,000. But today Penn sleeps on a hard, uncharitable park bench on Thames embankment, down and out. He is penniless and consequently is friendless.

Penn's story is a sad one. Perhaps his unluckiest moment was when he won the Calcutta sweepstakes. But for that he might now be a well-pensioned old soldier having a position of trust with some big firm and living, if not in luxury, in plenty and comfort.

Penn's Career.

Tabulated briefly, Penn's life is as follows:

1908—Private in the British army.

1909—Won $150,000 in the Calcutta sweepstakes.

1910—Living the life of a country squire in Surrey.

1914—Rejoined the army and was promoted to a captaincy.

1922—Sleeping penniless and friendless, on Thames embankment.

Penn's career in the army was distinguished. As a trooper in the Twenty-first lancers he rode in the famous charge against the Arabs at Omdurman and was awarded the medal of the Distinguished Service order for bravery in the face of the enemy fire.

In 1900 he bought a ticket from a barrack-room comrade for the Calcutta sweepstakes. He drew King Edward's horse Minor, and Penn won the $150,000 prize. He quickly purchased his discharge from the army and bought a magnificent country estate in Surrey near the ancient town of Dorking, in one of the most picturesque bits of old England. There he lived the typical life of an English country gentleman. He went to church on Sunday and sat in the family pew. On weekdays, like Horrocks of old, he rode to the hounds and looked after the tilling of his fields. The best people of the countryside joined him in the chase. His money was ample for a time, but eventually some of his speculations went bad and he had to give up his country place and come to London. Here he purchased a tobacco shop and settled down to the life of a small tradesman.

Poor Man Again.

Penn tried to recoup, but his financial manipulations went from bad to worse. At the beginning of 1914 he found himself a poor man once again. The war broke out and Penn rejoined his old regiment as a sergeant. His previous military training enabled him to get a commission and he rose rapidly to the rank of captain. The war ended and Penn was demobilized. Soon his soldiers' hopes disappeared. Now he is a tramp—an involuntary tramp—going from one factory to another seeking work. Ragged and down and out, he avoids the men who were formerly his fellow officers. As an ex-officer in a crack cavalry regiment he is too proud to approach his former wealthy comrades for help. He prefers to hide himself in squalor and poverty and to live the life of "the man who was."

WOMEN BALK AT DECREE

Fair Sex of Turkey Combat Move to Make Their Garb Uniform.

Some optimistic and determined Turks are attempting to persuade the women of the land to adopt a standard form of dress. Optimistic, because Turkish women seem more inclined to wear a uniform than would their sisters of London, Paris and New York, and determined because the committee de la mode is thinking of calling upon the police for help in carrying out its plans.

"Where are the women who would consent to have imposed upon them an antique and strange costume found today only in museums?" is one of the questions hurled at the reformers. "Where is the woman who would recommend such a costume to another?" The committee declares its project will be "put over."

Man, 87, Marries for Eighth Time.

Daniel M. White, eighty-seven years old, of Hersam, Ill., has married his eighth wife. Mrs. Mary Bowen, eighty-four years old, of Clayton, Ill. Mrs. Bowen was married once before. Mr. White outlived six of his wives, and the seventh was estranged and divorced.

The Seven "Modern Wonders."

The present age is one of supremacy in science rather than art. The seven are: 1. Wireless telegraph; 2. telephone; 3. flying machine; 4. radium; 5. antiseptics and antibiotics; 6. the X-ray; and 7. spectrum analysis.

STATE HOSPITAL BEATS ALL-STARS

Combination of Parker Axles, Schatz Men and a Fluke Homer Proves Too Much for Kingston Team—Score 4-3.

Before a crowd of 1,200, the Kingston All Stars went down to defeat before the combination of Schatz and Parker Axles known as the Hudson River State Hospital, score 4 to 3 on Saturday.

It was nip and tuck all through and the Kingston team should have won by a 3 to 1 score but a wild throw and Freddie Dahns' ground rule home run gave the Poughkeepsie outfit the game.

The Poughkeepsians had to work for every run while the All Stars were getting their markers by clean and well placed hits.

Kingston was first to score. Three successive singles in the second yielded Kingston their first marker. Stoudt and Dizek grounded out but Nichols drove one to right for a base. Cullen singled to left, Nichols going to third. Troy singled to center scoring Nichols but Peotz flew out to Captain Freddie Dahns of the Parker Axles.

Poughkeepsie tied it up in their half. Hahn singled and was sacrificed by Carpenter. Grey flied out to deep right Dahn going to third. Bennett grounded to Meuller who threw wild to first scoring Dahns. Trutner flied out to Nichols ending the inning.

Nothing happened until the fifth, fine fielding by both sides keeping runners down. Roche singled and scored on Dahns' home run to left. The blow was really only a two bagger as the ball was returned to the infield as Dahns rounded second but according to the ground rules it was a home run.

Kingston tied it in the seventh on hits by Cullen, Peotz, Stoudt, Troy and Dizek but Poughkeepsie again forged ahead in the eighth. After Van Bramer gathered in Start's high fly back of first, Roche hit to Meuller who threw wild to first, Roche going to second. Dahns hit to second Roche beating the throw to third. Carpenter flied out to Nichols who whipped the ball for home as Roche started from third. Stoudt cut the throw off and pegged quickly to the waiting Dizek who put the ball on Roche. However, Roche accidentally spiked Dizek and he dropped the ball. It was a pretty play and the runner was called out but when Dizek dropped the ball, the umpire changed his decision. Dizek was not hurt badly and was soon able to resume play. Nothing eventful happened during the rest of the game. Stoudt pitched a winning brand of baseball as did Grey of the Parker Axles but Stoudt was better in the pinches. Stoudt also did his share of clotting, getting two nice hits.

As usual, Nichols had a big day in the field getting five flies, three of which were difficult ones. The large crowd was well pleased with the game and the Kingston team was immediately booked for a return game at a later date.

The umpiring of Muller and Beal was very satisfactory and the Kingston team got a good deal and found no fault with any of the decisions rendered.

The Poughkeepsie team consisted of 5 of the Parker Axles players and 4 of the Schatzmen. These players play together once a week under the management of the Hudson River State Hospital.

"White Pines" Pottery Sale. An exhibition and sale of "White Pines" pottery made by Mr. and Mrs. Radcliffe Whitehead will be held at the library at Byrdcliffe on the next two Fridays, August 25 and September 2, from ten to six. This exhibition is the first comprehensive showing in this part of the country of Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead's interesting work.

"White Pines" pottery is primarily distinguished for the beauty of its shapes, often borrowed from the Chinese or the Persian, and for the color and quality of its glazes. It relies on shape and color and texture rather than on surface decoration.
